The Challenge

With the general counsel leaving the organization for a new opportunity, our client needed interim support to manage the transition while a search for a permanent general counsel began. Our client needed an experienced Dutch-qualified lawyer who could navigate the ebbs and flow of an internationally operating, private equity-owned group of companies.

The Solution

The outgoing GC had worked with Major, Lindsey & Africa's Interim Legal team in Amsterdam previously. Knowing the organization needed immediate support, the GC reached out and introduced us to the management team and HR director. After an in-depth conversation to explore the skills needed and profile desired for this role, we presented a selection of four candidates within 24 hours. All four candidates, who all had worked with us in previous interim roles, were invited for interviews on Friday and the chosen candidates began the following Tuesday.

The Results

Our client was impressed with the quality and skill sets of the candidates we presented. The chosen candidate was initially contracted for four months but ended up staying on for nine months to see the transition through. Interim Legal continues to engage with the client keeping them abreast of market trends and intel.
