TOP LOCAL INDUSTRY: HEALTH CARE AND SOCIAL ASSISTANCE

Boston has a strong healthcare innovation infrastructure. It is the hub of a diverse healthcare economy that includes the life sciences and a digital health cluster that leverages the strong investment/venture capital landscape, major academic medical centers, institutions of higher learning, and a highly skilled and educated workforce. Boston is where it is at for the innovation healthcare economy.

According to MassBio, a not-for-profit organization that represents the Massachusetts biotechnology industry, the industry has grown 28 percent over 10 years and is poised for more continued growth through venture capital investment.

TECH INDUSTRY

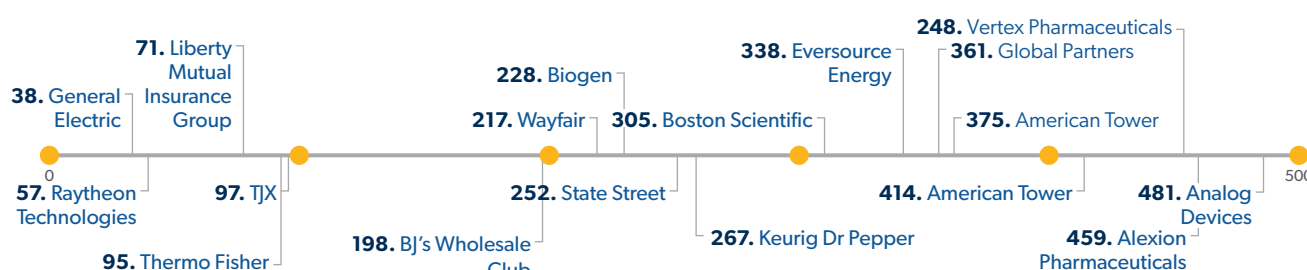

The technology sector is the driving force behind Metro Boston's economy. In the past 10 years, high-tech employment has doubled in Boston and has continued to grow in the suburbs even as urbanization has taken hold.

When measured against its peers, Boston is a true tech tour-de-force. Out of the top U.S. metro areas, it has the second highest concentration of STEM talent within 10 miles of its core. Tech heavyweights Google, Facebook and Salesforce all have a presence here and homegrown unicorns including the likes of Wayfair, DraftKings, Toast and CarGurus continue to flourish.

The tech sector's contribution to the Boston economy is estimated at $86 billion, equal to about 19.6 percent of the total economy. According to a 2019 KPMG survey of the tech industry, Boston is the ninth likeliest city globally to become the "leading technology innovation hub outside of Silicon Valley over the next four years."
